Sketch of an Eventful Military Career

[illegible] New York [illegible]

The military career of Gen. Francis C. Barlow [illegible] of the character of the [illegible] American [illegible] to dealy and [illegible] he learned to [illegible] and his steps from the [illegible] the ranks to the high [illegible] illustrate the versatility and capability of the American mind. Gen. Barlow was a hater of slavery, from the conviction that liberty was the equal right of all human beings. Educated at Harvard, where he won the [illegible] his class, he was known to his fellow students as [illegible] the most logical and most combatant [illegible] disputations on the great question which then agitated the country. A course of study for the bar in the office of the late [illegible] William Curtis Noyes, and a partnership in the practice of law with Geo. Bliss, brought [illegible] which did not diminish the [illegible] and the commencement of the war found him prepared to maintain the [illegible] of the Northern cause by every personal [illegible].

The very day which brought the news of the [illegible] Sumter, Gen. Barlow commenced making [illegible] to leave his business and his home at the [illegible] call for troops. He sought for [illegible] and refused a commission which was offered him on the ground that he "had never handled a firearm in his life," and that he preferred to endure the hardships of a private soldier's life to being an object of ridicule in a situation that he was not master of. "Besides," said he, "officers will always be plenty." He enlisted as a private in the 12th State Militia (Colonel Butterfield) on Saturday, April 20th, 1861. He was married the same evening to the highly accomplished lady whose devotion to the Union cause, equaling his own, cost her her life, and the next morning at [illegible] o'clock he stood in the ranks of the 12th as they formed in line on Union Square preparatory to their departure for Washington. He knew no one in the regiment, but his knapsack was stuffed with elementary military works, and he was a resolute and habitual student. Three weeks in camp at Washington prepared him to accept the first lieutenancy which Colonel Butterfield [illegible] him, and in this capacity he served with [illegible] until their three months' term expired and they were mustered out of service. On his return to New York he immediately commenced raising men for the 61st Volunteers, which was then organizing, and he was appointed Lieutenant Colonel of that regiment. Being assigned to the Army of the Potomac, the regiment lay [illegible] gazing at the wooden guns of Manassas during the fall and winter of 1861, but its Lieutenant Colonel was not idle, for by constant study he fitted himself for any position in which he might be placed by the fortunes or misfortunes of war. When the army moved down to the Peninsula, Col. Barlow was in command of his regiment, and during the siege of Yorktown received his commission as full Colonel. From that time General Barlow had a chance for the development of his undoubted talents as a military leader. At the battle of Fair Oaks he commanded a brigade, and promptly led them into the thick of the fight. He exposed himself freely, keeping up with his men and never allowing them to recede an inch from their first position. He fought gallantly during the terrible seven days' struggle for a new base, and led the remnant of his regiment to the safe retreat at Harrison's Landing.

At the battle of Antietam he again commanded a brigade, and was so severely wounded in the groin and in the breast that his life was given up by all except his faithful wife. His gallantry [illegible] were here recognized by the War Department, and while in the hospital at Washington he was appointed Brigadier General of Volunteers. Upon his recovery he was assigned to the command of a division of the Eleventh Corps, and at the [illegible] battle of Chancellorsville. In the course of this action the corps was thrown into some confusion and broke to the rear. Gen. Barlow's command, however, remained firm, and Gen. Slocum, who was sent to the assistance of the Eleventh Corps, found him bravely contending against Stonewall Jackson's entire army. At Gettysburg Gen. Barlow still commanded his division of the Eleventh. The corps was to a certain extent in disgrace, and was looked upon as unreliable. Determined, if possible, to inspire them with confidence, Barlow rode along in front of the line encouraging them to stand firm. During the action he exposed himself in every way, unjustifiably except under the circumstances of the particular case, where a gallant example was needed to inspirit the troops, and they were repulsed [illegible] by their commander.

In the midst of the action on the first day of the battle, after losing two staff officers, General Barlow [illegible] from his horse with four musket balls in his body. The corps fell back and he was left on the field near Gettysburg, to all appearances dead. While lying in this state, exposed to the fire of [illegible] he received two other wounds in different parts of the body. It was almost a miracle that he was ever heard from again. Yet [illegible] evening as Gen. [illegible] Early and staff were riding across the field, the rebel chief saw the star on the shoulders of an apparently inanimate figure, and stopped for a moment to obtain the name of the dead Union General. It was Barlow, and [illegible] staff officer [illegible] discovered him to be alive [illegible] inquired if he could do anything [illegible]. Being answered in the negative [illegible] rebels to [illegible] but Early declared it to be a waste of time, saying that he would never live to fight again. Slowly raising his head and resting it on his arm [illegible] replied, "I will live to fight you yet [illegible]." Impossible as it might have seemed to the Confederate chief at that time, the prophecy was fulfilled at the battle of Spottsylvania [illegible] where Barlow, in a brilliant charge, snatched from Early's corps an entire division and 30 pieces of artillery. Mrs. Barlow, who had followed the army, assisting in the hospitals and even carrying succor to the wounded on the field, mounted a horse as soon as she learned the fate of her husband and rode over to the Confederate lines in search of him. She was permitted to [illegible] the field and through the village, and she found him that night in a barn in the village of Gettysburg.

Careful nursing and assiduous care on her part, combined with the indomitable will and determination of the former to live to fight Early and all [illegible] brought him up and out of the very grave, and he so far recovered as to resume his command when Grant began his great movement in the spring of 1864. After this Mrs. Barlow [illegible] teacup full of [illegible] surgeons had extracted [illegible] The record of General Barlow [illegible] of the Wilderness is one of the most brilliant of the war. His capture of [illegible] and the event is too recent [illegible] forgotten. [illegible] was brought prominently before the people [illegible] and his [illegible] he was obliged to [illegible] leave of absence [illegible] visiting Europe. With [illegible] health and [illegible] vigor he returned [illegible] when he was [illegible] and took an active part in the [illegible] struggle of the conflict.

THE USES AND POWER OF LABOR.—The chivalry of the South are beginning to understand the uses and necessity of labor. "Small farmers, greasy mechanics and Northern mudsills" are not the worst classes of men after all. The high toned Southerners are coming to a correct view of true manhood. Free labor is marching on. We quote from the Columbia (S. C.) Phoenix:

How events teach the successive generations who yet refuse to learn! How the ancient laws of God re-assert their utility and necessity after a thousand years of false and frivolous convention! "Thou shalt earn thy bread in the sweat of the brow," is the decree. The decree, delivered as a penalty, duly obeyed, becomes the secret of innumerable permanent blessings. Neglected, denied, repudiated, the law finally asserts itself, and compels respect from the offender. But a day ago a worthy citizen said to us: "What a cruel thing it is that I was not trained to some good handicraft; that I was not educated and taught as a carpenter, bricklayer, or blacksmith. I should not now be destitute. I should have my secret of employment and existence at my fingers' ends, and should not now be looking around me in vain seeking what to do." Exactly! The great effort of mankind, in its blindness, is to escape labor—to escape the law! Men rush into the professions, or become accountants, bookkeepers, clerks, collectors, agents, factors, until the country is covered, at this moment, with swarms seeking easy work, as they fancy, or work which shall not soil the fingers—all of whom are in each other's way. It was a sufficiently evil feature in this practice that, in the case of the professions, two out of every three were out of their proper places, and intruders into the places of better men. The professions are properly the fountains of authority and sacred opinion. They are guardians of society. Let them be inferior and incompetent, and they degrade the professions and deprive society of its best securities. The evil consequences follow inevitably in general misrule and ruin. We owe no small portion of the evils which now find us prostrate to the incompetence and worthlessness of professional men—to the wretchedness of legislation in wretched hands—to the terrible disproportion of those class[es] to the physical laborers in the community. And the just judgment of God avenges upon society this usurpation of position by the worthless, and this overcrowding of certain occupations to the neglect of others, which, in the exigencies of society, as at present, become the only useful. At this moment, the vast numbers of persons bred up as bookkeepers, accountants, clerks, etc., to say nothing of professional men, seeking employment in the cities—seeking agencies of business where there can be no business—sitting upon hungry benches, looking right and left for the means of food—presents the spectacle of a very army famishing in the country which they have plundered of all its food. Happy he, of these classes, who has an occupation at his fingers' ends—who can build a house of brick or wood, make a coat, a pair of boots, a box, a cask, a horse shoe, or do any work for which the necessities of society compel a continual demand. Let parents take warning from this condition of things. Let them put their sons to honest trades, which involve labor, and the acquisition of some useful craft. Let them abandon the foolish vanities which made them strive to keep them from hard labor. If the boy is one of superior talents, endowed for a profession by the Deity, the habit of work and pains taking will not hurt him for the professions—will be a help—since labor is one essential element of an educational training. Let him be put at fourteen to a trade for five or seven years, and he will not be found at a loss for the means of life, whatever the convulsions of society. And let the thousands who go about asking where to go and what to do, go to the farms and take up the plow, and, stripping cheerfully to their tasks, they will discover that their banks of potatoes, corn and peas are banks of unfailing resources, which never delude with promises never to be paid in the hour of trouble.

District of Oregon—ss

WHEREAS, an information has been filed in the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon, on the 13th day of October, A. D. 1865, by J. N. Dolph, Esq., District Attorney, on behalf of the United States against "Five pieces of Dress Silk," alleging, in substance that said goods were, on or about the 10th day of May, A. D. 1865, brought and imported from the foreign territory of British Columbia, under the dominion of Her Britannic Majesty, into the United States by the overland route from Victoria in said foreign territory to the port of Portland in said District, without a manifest of such merchandise being delivered to the Collector of Customs or his Deputy at Port Angeles, which office was nearest to the boundary line of such foreign territory, and to said overland route, or to any Collector or Deputy Collector of Customs, and praying process against said goods or merchandise, and that the same be declared forfeited to the United States of America.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the Warrant under the Seal of said Court to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming said goods or merchandise, or in any manner interested therein, that they be and appear before the said District Court to be held in the city of Portland on Monday, the [illegible] day of November, A. D. 1865, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to interpose their claims and make their allegations in that behalf.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 31, 1865.

State Superintendent.

Among the various matters of general legislation proper to be considered by our Legislative Assembly at the special session (if they shall deem it proper to enter upon the business of general legislation at all) there is no subject deserving a more serious consideration than that of common schools. We do not think any material changes are required in our present system so far as it goes—not that it is the best that could be devised, but because the people have become familiar with it, and it has at present probably as few objectionable features as any that would be substituted in its place. But the system requires the office of a State Superintendent and a State Board of Education, for which no adequate provision is made by any existing law. A law was proposed at the last session, which was copied from that of Michigan or some other of the Western States, but it failed to pass, and for the good reason that it was too voluminous and too complicated to be of practical use in this new and sparsely peopled State. Herein lies the difficulty in legislating wisely upon this subject. We are not prepared for that thorough and complete system which has been found to work well in the older States. Whatever experience has shown is needed and can be made effective throughout the State, we ought to have, and this consideration ought to guide all attempts at change or improvement. We think that there ought to be created a Board of Education, to consist of a State Superintendent, with two others of the chief officers of the Government—say the Governor and the President of the Senate, or the State Treasurer.

Of this board the Governor should be president, and the Superintendent secretary. The board should have a seal, and therewith authenticate all their official acts. This board should be required to report to the assembly at every session. They should advise with and supervise the action of the Superintendent in all matters connected with his special department. They should be charged with the control and management of all the common school funds, and upon their warrant alone under seal, and countersigned by the Secretary of State, should the annual apportionment of school moneys to the several counties, be paid over. The funds derived from the sale of the school lands, and all other funds and property held for the benefit of common schools, should be transferred from the county authorities to the State board, and its safety secured. The interest of this fund, any income otherwise derived from the lands, and the proceeds of the annual two mill tax should be paid into the State Treasury, and be apportioned annually by the State Superintendent among the several counties, according to the number of children. The general duties of the State Superintendent should be to see to the distribution of the school laws, with forms and instructions for the County Superintendents, school directors and teachers—to disseminate, by all proper methods, knowledge concerning the importance and the best methods of education—to hold teachers' institutes once a year at one or more places in each judicial district—to apportion once a year among the several counties all the school moneys in the State Treasury, which may be lawfully used for the annual support of the common schools—to furnish to the assembly a full report of the state of public instruction in the State, in detail, together with such suggestions as he may deem proper, regarding school houses, books, libraries, apparatus and whatever pertains to the common schools.

The salary of the Superintendent should be sufficient to encourage a suitable man to give his whole time to his office, and the incidental expenses of the office should be audited by the board of education.

If such a system as this should be added to what we have at present, it would be necessary to revise some parts of the present school law, and of the laws relating to the duties of County Clerk, Secretary of State and State Treasurer, so as to make them all harmonize.

We have a law at present authorising the sale of the school lands. There is considerable difference of opinion about the wisdom or expediency of such a law. We think it of doubtful expediency. It authorizes the sale of the lands "selected or to be selected," at from $1 25 to $2 00 an acre "in lawful money;" and it is probable that under its provisions the best lands will be, or have been disposed of—lands that might have been, in some cases perhaps, leased for twice that money, and sold after a few years for ten times the amount. We suggest whether it would not be expedient to fix the minimum price of school lands at $5 00 an acre, if they must be sold; or, rather, if authority to make ten or twenty year leases or to sell a part of the timber on some of them would not be better than this liberal system of selling for a trifle.

We simply make these suggestions, and desire to call the attention of the people to this important subject.

THE ELECTIONS EAST AND THE DEMOCRACY.—The result of the late elections in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Iowa, shows that it is worse than folly for the Democracy to have recourse to policy and expediency in their efforts to overcome the opposition. We thought and hoped that the inglorious defeat sustained in the Presidential election last year would have convinced our party brethren in the States across the mountains that the time for such questionable devices had gone by.—State Rights Democrat.

Oh! Mr. O'Meara, how can you make such an announcement! Has it come to this—"worse than folly for the Democracy to have recourse to policy and expediency!" You have concluded, then, to make a complete and final assignment of all your stock in trade, and abandon forever the "time honored usages" of the party? What can you do without "policy and expediency?" You may have principles, excellent of their kind, but (the people concluded some time ago) they are of the meanest kind possible. Slavery, ignorance, aristocracy, anti-Nationality, anarchy, the "Democracy" have been struggling for, during the last twenty years; and during the last five years with arms in their hands or hidden under their coat tails. Whatever looks toward universal liberty, universal education, the greatest good of the greatest number, and the common brotherhood of nations and humanity—the "Democracy" have hated and continue to hate. They have ignored the principle of liberty and misnamed it. The right to trample under foot the decisions of Constitutional majorities, to destroy the best of political institutions, to substitute the caprice of faction for the clear and deliberate voice of a nation, they call freedom. The right to resist the laws, to beat niggers to a jelly, to hang and murder and starve faithful lovers of the country, is with them a glorious quality of personal liberty. But the people understand your principles well, and now if you are going to give up policy and expediency, they will, perhaps, give you credit for honesty, but will continue to rejoice in your discomfiture.

The Marysville Appeal says that several vacant buildings in that city are being rented for the storage of barley. It is generally stored on account of farmers, who refuse to sell at ruling rates. At the close of last week, it was a perfect drug in the markets, falling to the low figure of seventy five cents per hundred. It has sold at eighty seven and a half.

THE HUMBOLDT JOURNAL is the title to a neat little sheet lately established at Eureka, Humboldt county, California, copies of which have reached us.

State Items

The Umatilla Advertiser has a sample of a thousand pounds of tobacco raised on the farm of R. H. Basket, in Walla Walla valley, Umatilla County, which it says looks beautiful, and manufactured for chewing, would be number one. The natural leaf tobacco beats all for smoking in the market.

The same paper has the following: A few days since, E. Stewart, a farmer at Birch creek in this county, lost by fire [illegible] worth of grain, mostly in stacks, a portion threshed. The fire is thought to be the work of incendiaries.

A son of Henry Bowman, nine years of age, of Birch creek, was thrown from a race horse at the Walla Walla races, lately. In falling from his horse, he was hit by the animal's foot, about the head. At latest accounts, the lad was still alive, but unconscious, and the physicians had no hopes for his recovery.

The Idahoans are luxuriating upon grapes, peaches and other fruits, which they are enabled to get since B. M. Durell & Co. established their Fast Freight Line.

There are many paying ledges of quartz in Josephine and Jackson counties. The Jacksonville Sentinel says S. A. Hedner has got his quartz mill running, and has one in a short run of a week with the most gratifying result. From Mr. D. C. Morris, the engineer who put up the machinery, we get some particulars. The mill is now a five stamp mill, but the proprietors intend putting up five more stamps in the spring. There are at present four of Gordon's amalgamating pans attached, next spring seven more will be added. The mill now crushes eight tons of rock per day. The run made paid $25 per ton, and it is thought that if the rock is properly selected, it will average $35 per ton.

The exact return of the County Assessor of total property valuation in Linn, is $2,4[illegible]5,941. There are 1,465 persons who pay poll tax. The total tax levied is thirteen and one half mills on the dollar, of which five and a half mills is for State purposes, two mills for school tax and six for County uses.

A meeting was held at Albany on last Wednesday evening to present to the citizens of Linn County the benefits to accrue from the complete opening of a wagon road from Lebanon across the mountains to the mining regions east. Luther Elkins and Mr. Kilpatrick addressed the meeting in behalf of the enterprise, and showed that it is an enterprise which should enlist to its support every property owner and business man in Linn County. A Committee was authorized to receive subscriptions for shares.

A plat of 280 acres on what is known as Hutchins' farm, immediately adjoining the rear of the Monteith Albany claim, about a mile and half from the river front of town, admirably adapted to the purpose, has been selected for the Linn County fair grounds. The Society are to pay $5,000 for the property. They propose to form a capital stock of $5,000, in shares of $25 each, to pay for the land and erect the necessary improvements upon it immediately, or in time for the next Fair.

The citizens of Jackson and Josephine counties are likely to join in the erection of a Woolen Factory in that section. The Reporter presents strong arguments in favor of the project.

J. Norcross reports to the Democrat the following prices, October 28th: Wheat, $1 per bushel; oats, fifty cents; Potatoes, 62½c per bushel; Flour, $5 50@$6 ℔ bbl. Butter, 35c ℔ lb. Eggs, 30c per dozen. Dried Apples, 8c ℔ lb. Dried peaches, 15c ℔ lb. Dried plums, 15c; dried pears, 20c. Oregon socks, $6 per dozen. Pork, 8½c@9c per lb.

The members of the religious denomination of United Brethren in Oregon propose to erect and found a College on Mary's river, five miles from Corvalis, the ensuing summer, to be called "Philomath College." The Gazette says over $15,000 are already subscribed for that purpose. The building is to be of brick, sixty by one hundred feet, and two stories.

The State Journal says Henry Coston, lately received at the Penitentiary in this city, was sentenced for one year, for shooting a man in Roseburg some two or three months ago.

FROM THE BRITISH POSSESSIONS.—The Victoria Colonist has a Portland correspondent rather more truthful and candid than the correspondent of the Chronicle from this city last winter. This new writer says of Portland:

"She is daily extending her wings in divers directions as the increase of population and business demand it. Her growth is steady and sure, and what will thinking and far strong men call fast and not mushroom like up to day and down to morrow. The fallen edifice from the quaking of mother earth in other sections of the country, is to her an impetus for a new building. Whilst she thankfully accepts the income from the mines around, she keeps a keen eye to her agricultural resources."

The Colonist has been informed that two officers belonging to the British camp at San Juan Island went to Kokasilah river to hunt, and finding the country very rough, returned and went up the Cowichan river to Somenos village, thence to Drinkwater's and Mount Provost. They sent back two Indians to Somenos for provisions, and these Indians report that the officers have found coal on the north side of Mount Provost, and a gold quartz ledge in a slate formation, thought to be rich.

Later advices from Cariboo state that the Davis claim was paying 80 ounces per day; the Sawmill continued to do remarkably well; but little else was doing on Sawmill Gulch. The Government Exploring Party, it is said, made no new discoveries.

The Nanaimo Gazette has received so much encouragement from the progressive people of Nanaimo that arrangements are being made for increasing the size of the paper. The necessary material has been ordered from San Francisco, together with an assortment of jobbing type.

IMMIGRANTS.—The editor of the Seattle Gazette says, if we will direct the immigrants to the Puget Sound region he will undertake to show them a beautiful rich valley within twenty miles of town, where the whole of them can settle in a body with navigable waters at their very doors. If he will do that, and then guarantee the prices for produce quoted in his paper, immigrants will have a good thing, and we recommend them to go.

INCONGRUOUS PHRASES.—There is an advertisement in the Montana Post of the "Academy of the Holy Family" for young ladies, St. Ignatius Mission, Montana. It ends as follows: "For further information address Rev. Mother Mary, (of the infant Jesus,) Superioress, thirty six miles from Hellgate."

Much anxiety is felt at San Francisco about the ship Ne Plus Ultra, now over six months out from New York, and extra insurance is in some instances being paid.

Fifteen thousand careless people in the United States, every week, neglect to put stamps on their envelopes.

And formed a [illegible] of stately style,
Her eyes [illegible] with her smile.
I gazed on her in hope [illegible]
And as she caught my dagger glance,
[illegible]
To catch the look that would rush past,
She knew I waited but little [illegible].
On which was placed the neatest hat
That ever was seen, and deemed at once,
That Lumsden must have had a chance
To decorate that angel face.
The lady strides to Lumsden's go,
To get their feet in form adorned
Particularly if they are corned.

[illegible] GIFT.—Yesterday Mr. John W. Sutton [illegible] present to the Portland Library [illegible] in the form of an ancient picture [illegible] entitled "A [illegible] Collation." It is a [illegible] picture, painted by Van [illegible], as the [illegible] the right Honorable the Earl of Bute, is [illegible] according to its own inscription, [illegible] inscribed by his lordship's most obliged and [illegible] servant, J. Boydell." The plate bears [illegible] November 20, 1765, hence on Thursday [illegible] the age of a century. It is a [illegible] to the young association, and will [illegible] a valuable portion of the collection now [illegible] of the rooms on First street. We presume [illegible] low price to be put upon this picture. Mr. [illegible] who has taken an active part in the management of the association, desires us to make favorable [illegible] the donation, and certainly Mr. Sutton [illegible] of those who feel an interest in the [illegible] the recipient of his gift. We should [illegible] persons follow the example. We [illegible] of the Portland Library Association [illegible] feel that in time it will become one of the [illegible] of the State of Oregon. Already an [illegible] of books are upon its shelves. The [illegible] now it is a delightful retreat. Success [illegible] to Mr. Sutton for his donation [illegible] to all, who encourage the enterprise.

[illegible] Brown.—Fourteen years ago [illegible] McCormick established in this [illegible] As a fitting sign of the times, [illegible] moved into a spacious [illegible] edifice, costing $10,000, on the site [illegible] structure, 105 Front street. It is [illegible] Mr. McCormick is now better [illegible] upon the patrons of his establishment, [illegible] situation of the increasing business [illegible] equally as well by them as at an earlier [illegible] is one of the finest finished in the city, [illegible] the State, is 85 feet deep and 25 feet [illegible] high. The builder, Mr. E. M. Burton, [illegible] Mr. Chas. Wiberg, should alike feel [illegible] with the occupant, in its elegance.

[illegible]—This gentleman, late comedian, [illegible] Mr. Thomas Maguire's management at San Francisco, was one of the victims of [illegible] the Yosemite, on the 12th inst. Mr. [illegible] in London, in 1831. [illegible]—It will be observed, we should have [illegible] days since, that Barman Bros., the great [illegible] furnishing goods men, at the old [illegible] building on Front street, still advertise [illegible] sell, they are ever selling, customers [illegible] grow small by degrees and [illegible] then are replenished, and as the public [illegible] gives bargains to all who call. Isaac [illegible] of the firm, is still absent to California [illegible] he has been suffering several illness.

[illegible]—We find the following in the Honolulu [illegible] of Sept. 19th. It will be remembered [illegible] visited the scene of the Brother Jonathan [illegible] and touched at San Francisco on the last [illegible] ports. "The Cambridge, of the Hawaiian [illegible] from San Francisco, was at Kohala [illegible] discharging lumber for the Kohala [illegible] is due here in all next week. She will [illegible] for Portland, Oregon."

[illegible] $6,000 shipment of treasure, [illegible] for the steamship Sierra Nevada [illegible] have been credited to Loeb Brothers.

[illegible] of the Purser, in giving our reporter the [illegible] to see a determination on the part [illegible] to assist us in our efforts to keep [illegible] of the exports of the country. It will [illegible] to get their earnest co-operation.

[illegible] W. B. SCRANTON.—Returns of the outward [illegible] W. B. Scranton which sailed [illegible] for San Francisco, on the 20th, were received yesterday. N. [illegible]

From the Sandwich Islands

We have files to Sept. 16th from Honolulu. The [illegible], on her first trip from San Francisco, [illegible] and [illegible] created no little consternation among the passengers and led to extra precautions on the part of her officers. Fortunately she arrived safely and can easily be repaired.

On the 6th instant, the U. S. steamer Saranac, Capt. Scott, arrived from Esquimault, V. I., after the short passage of 14 days. She is in search of the Shenandoah, and could not probably be in a better place to meet her were not the time gone by to meet with her anywhere. I am of the opinion that she left the Arctic about the 1st of July, and is now safely in harbor in Melbourne or Sydney, her officers being feasted and feted by her admirers there. The Saranac has taken in some 300 tons of coal with quick despatch, and now lies in the stream, ready at a moment's warning to get up steam. Nothing is publicly known of her ultimate movements, and the American Minister and Capt. Scott are probably the only ones who do know.

The autumnal rains come earlier this year in Honolulu than usual, quite to the relief of the sun dried town. During the week, showers have been frequent and profuse. The plantations on the windward side of the island, which have been suffering very severely for want of water, have by this change of weather been relieved.

The leprosy question is attracting great attention at the Islands. In considering the matter, evidence is brought to show what leprosy may be in China, and to prove that the loathsome disease common to the Islands is of the direct nature of the malady in China. The Gazette, in closing an able article on the subject says: "At all events, we shall hope that every facility will be offered by the public at large, to determine accurately what that odious disease is, and what measures may be best for benefiting the sufferers, and saving them from its wretchedness."

The Gazette publishes a list of the Hawaiian registered vessels. The two oldest now on the books of the Custom House are the Warwick, July 24, 1840, and the Kalaulaule, February 17, 1842. The Warwick has been running constantly and successfully between Oahu and Maui, in command of a native always, and has never met with an accident. The Kalaulaule has been ashore and as good as wrecked three times, but is just as good as new now, being a staunch vessel, almost ready to resume her trips amongst the islands.

An individual of the colored persuasion has been visiting the residences of Honolulu, and in the valley, representing himself as a skillful gardener. He has been particularly anxious to set out peach trees, at fifty cents each, offering to replant in case any should die, and has planted quite a number. He brings the peach tree with the roots, or rather the end where the roots ought to be, carefully wrapped in loam with an outside covering of some description, and carefully places them in the holes with covering on, observing that it is not well to disturb the roots too much, and they should be well watered. A gentleman, for whom he had planted several, pulled one up, and found that it was simply a branch lopped from a tree, and of course next to useless. The same scamp was prevailed upon to pay a visit to a Police Justice, who, upon a careful hearing, sent him to hard labor at the prison for six months.

THE PIONEER ANNIVERSARY.—Not many of the pioneers are now among us who "struck the first pick" and put up the first cabins in Idaho City. A few, however, are still left among the thousands who followed them, and with a very natural pride, that few celebrated last Saturday (October 7th) as the third anniversary of the settlement. Numerous baskets of champagne flowed in honor of the event. The original company, we believe, was composed of fifty men. Among these, Messrs. James Roach, Geo. I. Gilbert, David Thompson, John Christie, A. D. Sanders, Marion Moore, John Rogers, Wm Artz and a few others, whose names are not in our possession, still remain here. A majority of the original company acquired a competence, but many are as poor, in world's wealth, as before the discovery of the camp.—Idaho World.

A Democratic paper says that Stanton is as bad as Wirtz, and says "let him be tried." Stanton has been "tried," and has acquitted himself—to the general satisfaction of the country.

TO HEADS OF FAMILIES.—Are your little ones subject to croup? If so, don't fail to use NEWELL'S PULMONARY SYRUP. A few doses given in time may save the life of a darling child. Do not fail to have it on hand, if you would be safe and free from anxiety.

Miss Mitford's Lottery Ticket

The following strange incident in the life of Mary Russell Mitford, related by herself, may not have been before brought to the notice of our readers.

What my father's plans were I do not exactly know, probably to gather together what disposable money still remained after paying all debts from the sale of books, plate and furniture at Lyme, and thence to proceed (backed by his greatly lessened income) to practice in some distant town. At all events London was the best starting place and he could [illegible] his old fellow pupil and lifelong friend, Dr. Babington, then one of the physicians to Guy's Hospital and refresh his medical studies with experiments and lectures, while determining in what place to bestow himself.

In the meanwhile his spirits returned as buoyant as ever, and so, now that fear had changed into certainty, did mine. In the interval of his professional pursuits he walked about London with his little girl in his hand, and one day (it was my birth day and I was ten years old) he took me into a not very tempting looking place, which was as I speedily found, a lottery office. An Irish lottery was upon the point of being drawn and desired me to choose one out of several bits of printed paper (I did not then know their significance) that lay upon the counter.

"Choose which number you like best," said the dear papa, "and that shall be your birth day present."

I immediately selected one and put it into his hand. No. 2,224.

"Ah," said my father examining it, "you must choose again; I want to buy a whole ticket and this is only a quarter. Choose again, my pet."

"No, dear papa, I like this one best."

"Here is the next number," interposed the lottery office keeper, No. 2,223.

"Ay," said my father, "that will do just as well, will it not, Mary? We'll take that."

"No!" returned I, obstinately, "that won't do. This is my birth day, you know papa, and I am ten years old. Cast up my number, and you'll find that it makes ten. The other is only nine."

My father, superstitious like all speculators, was struck with my pertinacity and with the reason I gave which he liked none the less because the ground of preference was tolerably unreasonable, resisted the attempt of the office keeper to tempt me by different tickets, and we had nearly left the shop without a purchase, when the clerk who had been examining different desks and drawers, said to his principal:

"I think, sir, the matter may be managed, if the gentleman does not mind paying a few shillings more. That ticket 2,224, only came yesterday, and we have still all the shares, one half, one-quarter, one-eighth two sixteenths. It will be just the same if the young lady is set upon it."

The young lady was set upon it, and the shares were purchased.

The whole affair was a secret between us, and my father, whenever he got me to himself, talked over our future twenty thousand pounds—just like Alnaschar over his basket of eggs.

Meanwhile, time passed on, and one Sunday morning we were all preparing to go to church, when a face that I had forgotten, but my father had not, made its appearance. It was the clerk of the lottery office. An express had just arrived from Dublin, announcing that number 2,224 had drawn a prize of twenty thousand pounds, and he had hastened to communicate the good news.

Ah, me! In less than twenty years, what was left of the produce of the ticket so strangely chosen? What? except a Wedgwood dinner service that my father had made to commemorate the event, with the Irish harp within the border on one side, and his family crest on the other! The fragile and perishable ware long outlasted the more perishable money.

A New Paradise Discovered.—A most important discovery, says the Bulletin has just been made in South America. It is that the great river Amazon has been found to be navigable from one end to the other, that, in fact, a new route has been opened between the Atlantic and the Pacific. The Morona, a Peruvian steamer, which was sent to explore the Amazon, has arrived at Mayro, about 300 hundred miles from Lima. The Morona navigated more than 2,000 miles of the Amazon proper, and 500 of the Yonyall and Pachitea rivers, which, until then, had seen only Indian canoes. The country is, of course, inhabited only by savages, but it is of wonderful fertility. This Amazonian country, it will be recollected, is the home of that wonderful and beautiful plant the Great American Water Lily, and many other rare and beautiful plants have been brought from there. This important discovery will open up a new world to be reclaimed, redeemed and settled by the Anglo Saxon race.

A life-preserving raft has been invented and successfully tried. It is composed of three air-tight cylinders, made of India rubber or gutta percha. Those cylinders are each encased in another made of heavy duck, connected by duck flanches. On the raft are five "fasts," running crosswise which act for the double purpose of a seat and as a stretcher to keep the cylinders apart. Each cylinder contains when filled sixty nine cubic feet of air, or two hundred and seven in the three, which are capable of sustaining eight thousand pounds weight. Eighty persons have been carried at one time on this raft. It can be inflated by means of three bellows, with India rubber hose, which can be attached in ten minutes. It weighs but six hundred pounds when full. When afloat it draws only three inches of water, and is propelled by means of six oars or by sails.

A Hermit.—In the town of Hopkinton, Mass., a hermit by the name of Seth Bailey is living in a hut, a short distance from the road, built of boards and stones, and banked with earth and turf to the eaves. He is 78 years of age, was born in Natick and for nearly half a century has lived in the hut alone. A gentleman who recently made a visit to him states that the hut contains a pallet, covered with rags, a cooking stove and two or three gridirons. He lives in seclusion, and is not very fond of visitors. The first and only vote Mr. Bailey ever cast was for Abraham Lincoln, at the last Presidential election, and he regards that as a great event in his life. The hermit has worn the same pair of pants for 20 years. He stated to his visitor that he had never been married, and conversed quite intelligently.—Boston Traveller.

Religious Liberation in Chili.—The Chili Congress has passed with great unanimity a bill prepared by the government giving to those who do not profess the Roman Catholic faith liberty to offer worship within the precincts of individual property. Dissenters are also allowed to found and establish private schools for instructing their own children in the doctrine of their religion. By this legislation free worship, which has existed in fact in some of the towns of Chili, more especially in Valparaiso, will have acquired the legal sanction which it lacked, and edifices of all denominations may be put up and protected by law.

Reminiscences of '49ers.—On the evening of August 20th several San Franciscans partook of a repast in honor of the anniversary of the arrival of the ship [illegible] at that port in 1849. They remarked [illegible] how half a dozen dirt carts which were brought out by the company, and which cost in New York $30, sold readily for $200; and that the same number of railroad dirt cars which cost $80, sold for $1,200 apiece. [illegible] nails which cost 3 cents per pound, sold for $2; and that the price for shoeing a horse was $12. Sheet iron cost $1 per pound. Little spring balance scales, which cost fifty cents in [illegible], sold $25.

Some land has lately been sold in London for the sum of $1,000,000 per acre.

Scenes in South Carolina

Aiken is a [illegible] village of [illegible] thousand inhabitants, named in honor of [illegible] Aiken, father [illegible]. It is regularly laid out into streets one hundred yards wide, which are well [illegible] by old oaks and a variety of trees planted since the village was planned. It is one hundred and twenty miles from Charleston, and four hundred and fifty feet higher than that city in elevation. In winter it has been the resort of hundreds of invalids from the North, and in summer planters from the low lands have made it their homes. The [illegible] the railroad [illegible] eight hundred [illegible]. [illegible] the whole [illegible] town is [illegible] demons are [illegible] unsurpassed.

Only five miles of the railroad toward Charleston was spared [illegible] distance. What the Savannah river [illegible] to Orangeburg [illegible] at the rate of one hundred bales a day.

[illegible]

It is an extremely pleasant duty to mention the good feeling of the citizens toward the United States [illegible] tions to dinners, to parties [illegible] by the many [illegible] [illegible] welcome into [illegible] homes [illegible] soldier for any interest he takes in the welfare of the [illegible] States that he is among friends and [illegible] himself in [illegible] casion [illegible] proper to say [illegible] more than one [illegible] since the war [illegible] ginning, as a [illegible] and the conversation turns on travel and the resources of the country.

There is no [illegible] which animates [illegible] troops as [illegible] would [illegible] we have [illegible] Union is to-day a greater power than it ever was before history [illegible] within three [illegible] had the Union [illegible] and I salute [illegible] is the language of a gentleman who lost largely by the war, who lived in a [illegible] thousand dollar house, magnificently furnished, until it was burnt at the evacuation of Charleston and now occupies a small board house of one story.

TRAVELING AND PLANTING IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

The journey from Branchville to Aiken [illegible] managed so that the [illegible] sweet to the lover [illegible]. The farms and dwellings of [illegible] to afford many resting places during the [illegible] two required for the ride [illegible] men late's give forage to twelve cavalry and two ambulance horses for a night and would not accept any pay [illegible] and [illegible] to two officers on the same terms [illegible] S. Jennings [illegible] provisions were [illegible] taken by our army, yet he does not [illegible]. Omitting those [illegible] as belonging to that [illegible] rejoicings at the peace and [illegible] statements as to the condition of society and the coming crops. The small [illegible] has planted but little cotton this year. He says that he only planted enough for family use. He does not attribute the smallness of the cotton crop to want of labor or to the laziness of the [illegible], but to the fact that cotton was not planted. It will be well to bear this in mind in discussing the labor of the South. Three hundred acres of land is a small farm indeed. Usually one fourth of it is cultivated, a large portion of that is sometimes but half cleared, the girdled and barkless pine trees rivalling in number the corn hills at their feet. One thousand acres is a common number among this class of farmers. It is worth one dollar an acre, and many complain that "it is dear at that."

SOUTHERN HOMES.

The houses vary in cost and comfort according to the energy and intelligence of the owner. Those of the thrifty man are built of boards and furnished with window glass. Books and papers are found within them and the [illegible] are large and numerous. Others are built of logs, and have shutters only at the openings for windows. The huge fire-place gives light to the family by night, and its ashes are always gratefully regarded as the place of the [illegible] cake, which is very often the alpha and omega of breakfast, dinner and supper. Many consider this absence of luxuries as conducive to health. It is true that the soldiers who eat much meat and a variety of rich food, are troubled with prickly heat and sores arising from "too rich blood." Around the hearths of these humble dwellings the evening conversations turn, almost dispassionately, on the absent boys who went to the "rich man's war and the poor man's fight" but not to return, on the depredations of "Wheeler's men, who were quite as bad as the Yankees" in their conduct, or on the faults of the rich where there is more of passion displayed. [illegible] who have an ambition to learn to read and to appear well at church on Sundays are now compelled to take the places of the brothers who once held the hoe no more, and they do it without complaint. There is need of schoolmasters, but Southern men alone are desired by many who are particular who they send to. A mother said she thought [illegible] land was near Maryland, or among some of those Northern States." The "white trash" is not heard of much [illegible] country people" is a term often applied contemptuously in villages and "common people" is a similar expression. Ignorance and awkwardness in these plain people warrant educated people in the use of these terms, but charity suggests that it would be well to extend the benefits of education to them all.

THE SOLDIERS.

Unarmed soldiers can pass unmolested through all this region. The garrisons of white troops are now important to remain in the villages to preserve order, [illegible] and to attend to the division of crops. Scenes pleasant and unpleasant meet the observer's eye, and it is impossible for him to [illegible] himself exclusively to either if he is to tell the whole truth. [illegible] not quite agreeable [illegible].—New York Evening Post.

Unhappy Children.—I regard it as an irretrievable misfortune that my childhood was an unhappy one. By nature I was exceedingly elastic and buoyant, but the poverty of my parents subjected me to continual privations. I believe in the rugged nursing of [illegible] but he nursed me too much. In the winter time I was employed in [illegible] which [illegible] when [illegible] severe, and [illegible] sleep [illegible] to work. Even my play days [illegible] for I never had any [illegible] play hours were earned by extra [illegible] tasks early to gain a little leisure [illegible] annoyed ignorantly [illegible] real penalty [illegible] that violation [illegible] violation there is the added [illegible] and that is the only [illegible] you two pieces of [illegible] con[illegible] though they cost me what was [illegible] no than diamonds [illegible] though not [illegible] [illegible] I have derived one compensation however from the rigor of my early [illegible] become my second nature, and I think it would puzzle any [illegible] to the first [illegible] work has always [illegible] people say [illegible] wish I could exchange for that [illegible] whenever I have [illegible] number ever to have [illegible] so [illegible] God one as the [illegible].

Furniture.—The New [illegible], monthly art journal published in New York, treats general art topics sketchily [illegible] artists without [illegible] true merit. It has had several articles on furniture. Of late [illegible] that [illegible] and profit. The [illegible] shop [illegible] table [illegible] chairs [illegible] among the [illegible] room for articles that will not break [illegible] occupant happens to [illegible] We like that [illegible] there so much need of [illegible] nature. Think of [illegible] right in a chair of [illegible] ing not to lean to and fro [illegible] Now a days if a set of furniture [illegible] get unjointed or creaky in six months from date of purchase, it is only because you have wrapped it up in muslin, and carefully [illegible]. The New Path is a good thing. May it go straight ahead.

Bigamity.—A case of peculiar hardship [illegible] came to our notice yesterday. A married woman, named Mrs. W[illegible] who [illegible] a farmer at Williams [illegible] while on her way to California was arrested by virtue of a writ of capias, issued at the instance of George Lawrence, for a debt alleged [illegible] him. The woman's first husband, [illegible] she was divorced from in California. She was subsequently married to Woodward at [illegible]. The claim on which she is held is alleged to have been incurred prior to her [illegible] A [illegible] application [illegible] on the ground that she was a married woman. A witness swore that he saw her on her way to church with Woodward, at [illegible] and that he afterwards knew her as Mrs. Woodward. Two other witnesses swore that they knew her at Williams [illegible] as Mrs. Woodward. The woman having left the [illegible] Justice Newlham and [illegible] to discharge the writ and the woman was sent back to jail where she now lies. The fact of the prisoner being a female [illegible] sympathy in the mind of every citizen, but when we state that she is in [illegible] by the feeling of sympathy [illegible] permits the practice of such barbarity [illegible] this hist[illegible] been wiped forever from our statute books.—[illegible]

How to Make Milkers.—No matter what breed you have, something is necessary to reach the highest success in raising [illegible]. It's a great thing to have [illegible] Ayrshire, Jersey, or Short Horn [illegible], but apart from this important advantage [illegible] treatment in raising a milk [illegible] forest rom that to raising a beef [illegible] animal [illegible].

The calf should be well fed and petted while young. Well fed to induce a rapid growth [illegible] make her gentle and [illegible] the presence of her keeper. [illegible] sition so important in a cow [illegible] when a young [illegible] Milker would have the heifer [illegible] two years old, [illegible] if she has been well kept [illegible] good size [illegible] come a cow. She will give more milk [illegible] is early. It forms the habit of giving milk, and habit you know is a sort of second nature. An older bull is better. We use [illegible] bulls. A three or four year old is far better as a stock getter than a yearling [illegible] five or six year old to any other. After the heifer has come in, let her feed be regular. Clover is preferred to all others for the stall feed. A little meal induces a large flow. In summer [illegible] rather fattening. In bad weather give her a clean, dry stall.—[illegible] Ploughman.

Wonderful Hen Story.—A correspondent of the [illegible] Farmer supplies the following: "I have a brownish white hen, with the feathers [illegible] of the neck slightly pencilled [illegible] and her head decorated with a small crest. A month or so since she desired to sit. I tried for a week or so to break her of the notion, having no eggs I cared about putting under her. But she seemed so determined, I obtained eleven eggs of the Poland variety, and gave them to her. When she came off to feed next day, I discovered a large buff egg in her nest. I then marked the Poland eggs and shot the other fowls out, suspecting them of intrusion. Next day I found another egg, and so on. For fifteen days Miss Biddy continued to furnish her one egg daily. At the proper time she came off with eleven chickens. They are now nearly a week old, and lively as any. If Mr. Bement, or any other man, who is a fancier of fancy poultry, can produce anything to beat this uncommon barn yard fowl, I should like to know it."—Agricultural Paper.

A case similar to the above, came under our own observation in this city recently. A common hen rearing a brood of chickens, was confined in a small coop, and laid an egg daily for two weeks or more, after her brood had attained the age of two [illegible].

Pea Nuts.—Every boy in America likes peanuts, and very few of them know where they come from. They can be grown in almost everybody's yard but they flourish in North Carolina upon the sandy lands in the neighborhood of Cape Fear. They raise from fifty to seventy five bushels to the acre. At the price of one dollar per bushel it proves a profitable crop. The cultivation of it is easy: first the plow, then the sweep and weeding hoe. The vine makes an excellent forage for cattle equal to the best Northern hay. From the nut is pressed a valuable oil which has a peculiar value from the fact that it does not gum. It is used in the preparation of medicines for burning purposes, and is largely introduced as a condiment in salads. Such and so varied and important are the uses to which this simple product is devoted.

Bones for Poultry.—Fasten pieces of wide boards on three sides of a hard stone, and with a hammer break the bones from the kitchen in small fragments not larger than peas. Hens that are laying will eat them with avidity. Bones from fresh meat so broken so that hens can swallow the pieces, are excellent to make them lay. Poultry of all kinds should be well supplied with sharp gravel also at this season of the year. Pounded oyster shells where they can be obtained, afford one of the best means of supplying lime.

U S Marshal's Notice.

District of Oregon ss.

WHEREAS an information has been filed in the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon, on the [illegible] day of September A. D. 1865, by J. N. Dolph Esq. District Attorney on behalf of the United States against Two Trunks containing Merchandise, alleging in substance that the said goods were on or about the 20th day of May last, brought into port [illegible] from the port of Victoria in the colony of British Columbia, under the dominion of Her Britannic Majesty, into the said District and within the United States by the overland route from Victoria aforesaid [illegible] port of Portland in said District [illegible] and that the said goods were [illegible] said goods or merchandise, and that the same be [illegible] forfeit to the United States of America.

Now therefore, in pursuance of the Warrant [illegible] Seal of said Court to me directed and delivered [illegible] hereby give public notice to all persons claiming said merchandise, or in any manner interested therein, that they be and appear before the said District Court [illegible] held in the city of Portland on Monday the [illegible] day of November A. D. 1865 at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to interpose their claims, and make their allegations in that behalf.

Dated October 10th 1865.

WM. H. BENNETT,
U. S. Marshal [illegible]

J. N. Dolph, District Attorney. [illegible]

ALLEN'S

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.
